EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY JOINS CABA BOARD OF DIRECTORS

December 12, 2005

The Continental Automated Buildings Association (CABA) has added the Eastman Kodak Company to its Board of Directors. Jose E. Rivera will represent the company on CABA's board. CABA is a trade association that promotes advanced technologies for integrated systems and the automation of homes and buildings.

"With the addition of Eastman Kodak, CABA continues its strong tradition of representation from the consumer electronics sector," said Ronald J. Zimmer, CABA President & CEO. "We are pleased to welcome such a respected company, and distinguished individual to our board."

Mr. Rivera, a new business development leader in the Consumer Digital Imaging Group at the Eastman Kodak Company, is currently responsible for identifying and growing new opportunities in the consumer digital imaging market.

"I look forward to contributing to industry initiatives through participation on CABA's Board," stated Rivera. "Eastman Kodak sees CABA as a new, innovative partner and we look forward to our future collaboration."

Mr. Rivera started at Eastman Kodak in 1992 in the research laboratories as an image scientist working on color research and simulation. Four years later, he joined an innovation group within the research laboratories dedicated to identifying new growth opportunities for the company.

He has a B.S. in Electrical Engineering from the University of South Carolina. Originally from Puerto Rico, Mr. Rivera lives with his wife and three children in Rochester, N.Y.
