

CABA Presents Intelligent Building Education Track and Hosts Annual Board Meeting at IBcon 2018

April 23, 2018

Realcomm Conference Group announced that the Continental Automated Buildings Association (CABA) will be hosting its Annual Board Meeting and presenting an education track focused on the future of designing and managing intelligent buildings at IBcon 2018, the Smart Connected High Performance Intelligent Buildings conference, which will be held on June 6-7 at The Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas. Realcomm Conference Group is the leading research and educational institution that produces the world's largest conferences on automated business solutions and intelligent buildings strategies for the commercial, corporate, government and institutional real estate industry. CABA is a not-for-profit industry association that advances the connected home and intelligent buildings sectors through industry networking, competitive intelligence and collaborative research projects.

This year's conference theme, The Age of Acceleration: Navigating Global CRE Technology & Innovation, will focus on what it will take to stay abreast of the new technologies that are rapidly changing the industry, to rethink strategies, take bigger risks and work at a speed never experienced in modern history. Today's technology changes are not just tactical, incremental changes to operating models, but rather wholesale changes that have the potential to alter the purpose of real estate and how we operate it.

"We are pleased to host CABA and its annual board meeting at this year's conference where Realcomm will celebrate 20 years at the intersection of commercial and corporate real estate, technology, automation and innovation," said Jim Young, Co-founder and CEO of Realcomm. "As part of our education program, CABA will also be presenting an Intelligent Buildings track highlighting research projects they've completed in conjunction with Harbor Research, National Research Council (NRC) and Frost & Sullivan."

The CABA Intelligent Buildings track will feature the following three sessions: Improving Organizational Productivity with Building Automation Systems, Connected Multi-Dwelling Units and IoT, and Intelligent Buildings: Design & Implementation.

"We are extremely pleased to partner with Realcomm and offer the highest-quality knowledge and programming to IBcon 2018 attendees," said Ronald J. Zimmer, CABA President & CEO. "The beneficial data and intelligence that industry stakeholders will obtain from the CABA Intelligent Buildings track, along with exposure to our prestigious Board of Directors, will provide direct insights as to how new products, services and technologies will impact and benefit building owners, managers and other organizations participating in the intelligent building value chain."
